Good Afternoon Adam and Alan,

I hope you both have had a good week. I just wanted to reach out again with another update on the audit for you. This week we have focused on working through our own report comments/open items as well as making progress on review comments in the audit file. We worked through the portion of those report-related comments and changes that we could address on our own, then as you know we reached out with some additional report-related requests and questions for you. One thing that did come to mind is that I didn't necessarily call out an order of priority to those requests, so apologies for that oversight. I would say that items #127 and #128 are the priorities, as they have a more general effect on the report (across various pages)—the other requests are definitely important, but their impact is confined to a handful of pages and we can review around those. On item #128 as well, I realize there are a number of questions and some might be quick answers while others may take longer to address—we're happy to receive your answers piecemeal if that works better for you.

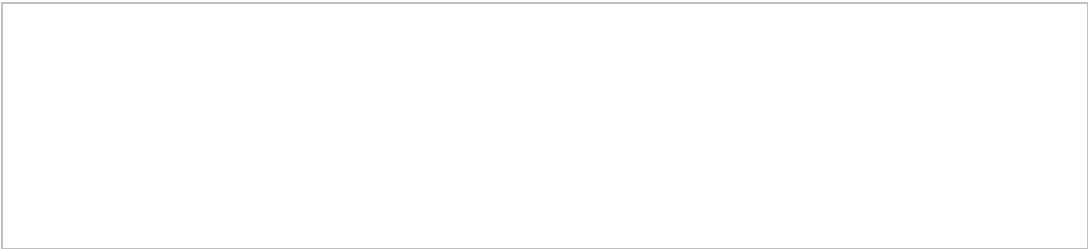

As I mentioned last week, Justine was out at training this week so our progress on comments in our audit file was a bit slower, although we did have members of the team assisting and clearing review comments and addressing open items in areas such as internal control understandings, pension and OPEB plans, and revenues.

Thanks again,

Aaron Calderon
