Hi Alan,

I noticed the retainage total on this spreadsheet is $815,049.75, but the retainage accounts in the trial balance is $544,722 (Per TB ?? 432 000 0000 000). Do you know why there is a difference between these numbers?

Thanks!

Justine,

Adam had completed the statistical section, but I'm going to probably want to review that before sending it over. I'll take care of that right now. I've got to meet with nutritional services (Unless you can rely on the review completed by the state for that testing) at 1:00 to try and resolve how we get you that information.

Well...crud. Because [REDACTED] [REDACTED] It does look like this is understated. We didn't capitalize retainage under contracts at my last job so I didn't think to look at this while conducting my review. I'm assuming we will need to book this as a Debit to CIP and a credit to accounts payable?

Can you point me to where you are grabbing these numbers from? This isn't what I am showing on my note 5a

I also need to edit that lease entry I had sent, I recorded the final lease amount not the additional lease financing. I'll send it all together.

██████████ The totals provided do not discount the leases, and exclude the ABS copier lease, (unless Adam was that bought out?) and include a lease with a start date of 7/1/23. If you have the 2023 workpapers could you send those to me, because what I'm seeing from Les's 2022 work doesn't tie to the schedules for the ABS lease (It's close, but doesn't tie).

Can you send me the lease detail from WP 6552? The only lease I was able to locate from Les's work was a single software lease that appeared to have ended in 2023, with a start date of 2018, which looks like it was the only one capitalized, was overstated and completed in FY 23.

It also looks like the leases included in our SBITA listing should have been capitalized last year, but were not. Were these deemed immaterial and excluded from the calculation? Most of these were put into place last year. I've done the calculations to adjust, but wanted to make sure I'm on the right page on this.

If this needs clarification, I will be free after 10:30, possibly sooner

Alan Moran, CPA

██████████ ██████████ ██████████ The totals provided do not discount the leases, and exclude the ABS copier lease, (unless Adam was that bought out?) and include a lease with a start date of 7/1/23. If you have the 2023 workpapers could you send those to me, because what I'm seeing from Les's 2022 work doesn't tie to the schedules for the ABS lease (It's close, but doesn't tie).

I'll go home and fix these, and have the correction for you before I get to bed.

Can you send me the lease detail from WP 6552? The only lease I was able to locate from Les's work was a single software lease that appeared to have ended in 2023, with a start date of 2018, which looks like it was the only one capitalized, was overstated and completed in FY 23.

It also looks like the leases included in our SBITA listing should have been capitalized last year, but were not. Were these deemed immaterial and excluded from the calculation? Most of these were put into place last year. I've done the calculations to adjust, but wanted to make sure I'm on the right page on this.
