Hi Adam – I did enjoy the holiday break, thank you! Hope you did as well and the new year is starting off well. Thank you for checking in, Aaron and I had put in a request to our schedulers, to provide staffing options we could evaluate to work through remaining audit items. I haven't yet received information from them, I'm guessing they had a lot of catch-up following the office closure. But am sending them a follow-up now and will circle back as soon as we have some weeks in mind that we can discuss with you.

Thanks,

kristen

Hi Kristen,

I hope that you had a fantastic holiday season. Just before our winter break, Alan submitted all of the workpapers to RSM, and I wanted to check in about whether there is anything you need from us at this time. I know that we're entering a busy season for you, so appreciate the time that you're able to give to this.

Cheers,

Hi Adam – Have been working with our resource team, specifically looking at when we could work to free up Justine as I think her continuity on the engagement would be very helpful. There isn't flexibility in the engagements she was working on end of January and thru the first week of March. But we've been working with other engagement teams to free up time in her schedule, along with a staff, for the weeks of March 10 and 17. We haven't been able to free up both weeks yet, but are working to split her time with another team.

While we continue to try and work thru these conflicts with other engagement teams to see if other resources can be freed up for those audits, wanted to go ahead and send a note about those weeks and any feedback you have. I know that's around springbreak time, and it looks like the District is closed the week of March 17, is that correct? Working to evaluate as well if the team was able to work through updated/revised information that first week and try to get questions out early, if we'd be okay working thru more the week of 3/17 if your team is unavailable.

Thanks,

Kristen

Hey Kristen,

Thanks for your work on this. Alan and most of our staff are available most of those two weeks; the district is only officially closed on 3/20 and 3/21, but our team can flex time as needed.
