Good Afternoon Adam,

I hope you are well—apologies for the delay in my response, I was briefly out with an illness. Our report department is working on putting together the draft Alan shared in one consolidated package and we can share that in the coming days.

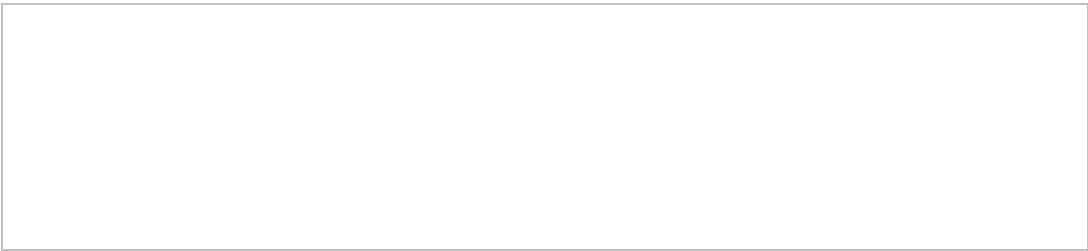

One item I did want to note for future reference is that it looks like there are decimals in the report draft. This can cause footing issues, where sums can appear to be off because of the hidden decimals/rounding. That is part of what our report department is doing—they are getting rid of those and ensuring the revised sums are consistent throughout. Since they are making formatting/rounding updates, I would say that going forwards it makes sense to hold off on making any changes to the report files you have in your possession—depending on the volume of any future changes, we can either make the changes ourselves or send you the revised files to make changes. However, I just wanted to communicate that so we don't end up with any necessary changes spread across two different versions and have difficulty reconciling the two—please reach out if you happen to identify any changes that need to be made down the road.

Within the next several days we can also communicate more information on our staffing schedules and timing.

Thank you,

Hi Adam & Alan – please see attached draft of the ACFR based on Alan’s files – our reports department updated for the decimals. Aaron and I haven’t yet reviewed this version – but wanted to go ahead and send the PDF over so you could start doing a self-review to see if any changes/updates stand out.

We’ve got Justine and a staff scheduled again the weeks of May 5 and May 12 – our goal is for them to target completing the remainder of open testing. Aaron is going to be out of the office those 2 weeks for a vacation he’s had planned for awhile, so we’ll be working thru our reviews subsequent to that time – but wanted to send you an update on next steps for timeline as well.

Thank you,

Kristen

We will try to make the requests red to make them stand out and easier to find! After I emailed you, we realized we needed to update our request, so an updated request will be coming shortly for intergovernmental revenue. In the meantime, we have uploaded the payroll requests and I was wondering if you could point me to the SBITA evaluation workpapers that agree to the $740,182 ROU leased equipment.

Please let me know if you have any questions.

One item I did want to note for future reference is that it looks like there are decimals in the report draft. Hi Adam & Alan – please see attached draft of the ACFR based on Alan's files – our reports department updated for the decimals. Aaron and I haven't yet reviewed this version – but wanted to go ahead and send the PDF over so you could start doing a self-review to see if any changes/updates stand out.

We've got Justine and a staff scheduled again the weeks of May 5 and May 12 – our goal is for them to target completing the remainder of open testing. Aaron is going to be out of the office those 2 weeks for a vacation he's had planned for awhile, so we'll be working thru our reviews subsequent to that time – but wanted to send you an update on next steps for timeline as well.

Thank you,

Kristen

Good Afternoon Adam,

I hope you are well—apologies for the delay in my response, I was briefly out with an illness. Our report department is working on putting together the draft Alan shared in one consolidated package and we can share that in the coming days.

One item I did want to note for future reference is that it looks like there are decimals in the report draft. This can cause footing issues, where sums can appear to be off because of the hidden decimals/rounding. That is part of what our report department is doing—they are getting rid of those and ensuring the revised sums are consistent throughout. Since they are making formatting/rounding updates, I would say that going forwards it makes sense to hold off on making any changes to the report files you have in your possession—depending on the volume of any future changes, we can either make the changes ourselves or send you the revised files to make changes. However, I just wanted to communicate that so we don't end up with any necessary changes spread across two different versions and have difficulty reconciling the two—please reach out if you happen to identify any changes that need to be made down the road.

Within the next several days we can also communicate more information on our staffing schedules and timing.

Thank you,

An immaterial difference was noted when I was looking at this. The 2024 balance was used in lieu of 2023. The impact to financial statements is immaterial, and would prefer to pass further adjustment.

We have a few additional questions regarding the 2022A and 2023 new bonds in FY23:

1. Can you confirm that there were no premiums or discounts on these bonds?
2. Was there a gain or loss recorded on the refunding of the bond transaction? Could you provide the entries related to the refunding transaction?
3. Were there any debt issuance costs associated with these new bonds? If so, could you provide a detailed breakdown of these costs?

- 1) There were no premiums or discounts on these bonds. All amounts on line 24 of the 8038-g attached represent issuance costs. This is included at item 90.
- 2). The value of the refunding was at the carrying value. The remaining bond premium of 1,286,711 was accounted for during the end of the year through bond amortization expense for the remaining value, so on presentation it is in debt service expense. [REDACTED] but the net impact of the transaction would be:

33 0000 5113 000 0000	New Debt issuance		29,815,000.00
09 511 000 0000 000	Bonds Payable	29,815,000.00

I think I have what you are looking for. For the fruit and veg grant it was pretty straightforward, but quite a few of these were based on the number of students eating lunch. Let me know if you have any additional questions.

Good Morning Alan,

I hope all has been well! I wanted to let you know that we have been working on the ICCSD audit this week. We have uploaded a few requests to Suralink (payroll and intergovernmental). We will keep you posted on additional items or questions that arise, but our plan is to continue adding items via Suralink.

Please let me know if you have any questions.

Thank you,

Hi Adam & Alan – please see attached draft of the ACFR based on Alan’s files – our reports department updated for the decimals. Aaron and I haven’t yet reviewed this version – but wanted to go ahead and send the PDF over so you could start doing a self-review to see if any changes/updates stand out.

We’ve got Justine and a staff scheduled again the weeks of May 5 and May 12 – our goal is for them to target completing the remainder of open testing. Aaron is going to be out of the office those 2 weeks for a vacation he’s had planned for awhile, so we’ll be working thru our reviews subsequent to that time – but wanted to send you an update on next steps for timeline as well.

Thank you,

Kristen

Subject: RE: EXT: Draft ETA

Good Afternoon Adam,

I hope you are well—apologies for the delay in my response, I was briefly out with an illness. Our report department is working on putting together the draft Alan shared in one consolidated package and we can share that in the coming days.

One item I did want to note for future reference is that it looks like there are decimals in the report draft. This can cause footing issues, where sums can appear to be off because of the hidden decimals/rounding. That is part of what our report department is doing—they are getting rid of those and ensuring the revised sums are consistent throughout. Since they are making formatting/rounding updates, I would say that going forwards it makes sense to hold off on making any changes to the report files you have in your possession—depending on the volume of any future changes, we can either make the changes ourselves or send you the revised files to make changes. However, I just wanted to communicate that so we don't end up with any necessary changes spread across two different versions and have difficulty reconciling the two—please reach out if you happen to identify any changes that need to be made down the road.

Within the next several days we can also communicate more information on our staffing schedules and timing.

Thank you,

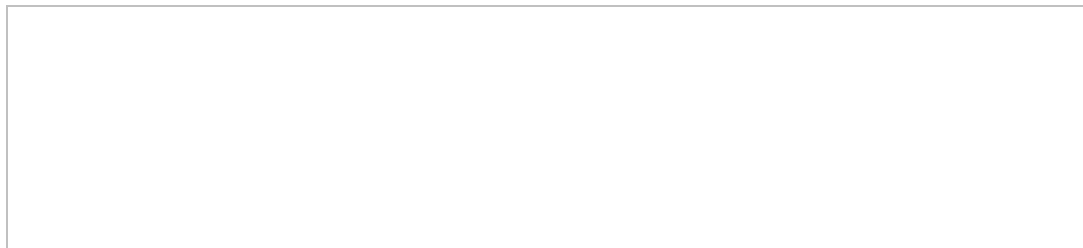

Aaron Calderon

Hi Aaron,

Could you provide me with an ETA on the draft of the financials at this point?

Let me know if I can provide any additional information, or if we need to jump on a call.

Cheers,
